

TESTIMONIES -: -FROM FRIENDS OF ALLAMANO @ ALLAMANO SPECIAL SCHOOL

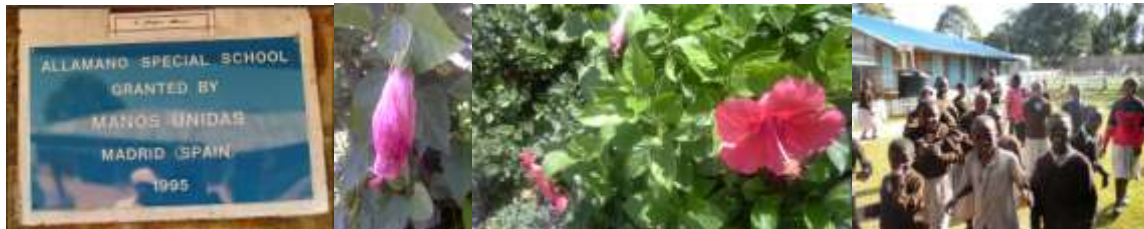

When in March 2011, a team from 9 countries representing the giant computer Company IBM visted Kenya in East Africa they visited, among other institutions, the Allamano special school, a school for mentally handicapped Children, with various developmental disabilities:-some of whom have over the years been integrated in mainstream education at the neighboring Wamagana Primary School. It was a life changing encounter and experience for some of the world’s best minds in computer technology. They left their footprints at Allamanos and unleashed a wave of testimonials across the world of the World Wide Web on the internet. The website WWW.FriendsOfAllamano.com, an initiative started by an Information Technology University student became one of the IBM reference points ><http://fpapetti.blogspot.com/2011/03/community-day-at-nyeri-friends-of.html> . There after they were extensively reviewed by others across the world. Read more on> WWW.FriendsOfAllamano.Org and on Blogs of the respective IBM team members among others. <http://www.friendsofallamano.org/blog/> Retrieved ____August 9, 2011

Overseas volunteer students on internship had their share of testimonies too. We thank you all and invite others to join in this outreach initiative for persons with mental and physical disabilities at the Allamano Special School. We acknowledge all others from various institutions who over the years have joined hands in making a positive difference.

Frame My Future Scholarship Contest 2011 - Hannah Hunt - Church ... contests.diplomaframe.com/Contests/.../Entries/ViewEntry.aspx?... - Cached

Hannah Hunt Raleigh, NC. School: Duke University ... like the ones at Allamano Special School in Kenya, communicate in ways that would have otherwise been ...

In the sun-drenched hills of central Kenya, I found my passion for children with disabilities. Upon returning to the US, I became inspired to pursue speech pathology so that I could help restore disabled children's voices, which are too often silenced or unheard. After I graduate in May, it is my hope to pursue a graduate degree to devote my life to helping incredible children, like the ones at Allamano Special School in Kenya, communicate in ways that would have otherwise been impossible. <http://contests.diplomaframe.com/Contests/FrameMyFutureContest/Entries/ViewEntry.aspx?entryID=29641> Retrieved 8/9/2011 5:22 AM Acknowledged.

A SATELLITE IMAGE- PIN POINT LOCATION OF ALLAMANO SPECIAL SCHOOL AND ENVIRONS

The Left Shoe shaped enclave with the Sports field under the shoe sole; A tribute to advances in human knowledge and technology: ©2011-12-12 AM

FRIENDS OF ALLAMANO SPECIAL SCHOOL and IBM Corporate service Team Visit March 2011 <http://evaaboekkenya.blogspot.com/2011/03/very-touching-day.html>

The sufferings of others — even of lower animals — can be effective in arousing us to works of mercy and charity. Indeed, while particular acts of compassion must perforce be directed toward this or that specific instance of suffering, the attitude of compassion is not. Its object is all suffering, even suffering of which none but the sufferer will ever be specifically aware; and compassion can be awakened and reinforced by the very realization that much suffering goes unnoticed and unrequited. The same goes for other virtues. We may be prompted to greater efforts to secure justice in the world precisely because we know that much injustice is never redressed; we may seek to accomplish some difficult goal for which others suffered without success, and in whose memory we want to see it attained. One of the benefits of evil that seems unrequited, then, is that it elicits greater effort to deal with those ills we can address, and greater urgency to assist the forgotten. In this sense, at least, there is no such thing as suffering that serves no purpose. Such is “THE BACKGROUND HISTORY and FUTURE OF Allamano Special School. SACRIFICES WERE MADE, HAVE BEEN & WILL BE MADE THAT OTHERS MAY FIND A BETTER WORLD

TIME TO MOVE ON: SAY THANK YOU & THE LAST GOODBYE TO THOSE WHO PRECEDED US IN ACTION: -----

Members of The Society of St Vincent De Paul were ardent supporters of Allamano Special School. In the above taken at the Holy Family Basilica in Nairobi Kenya, Mr. Paschal Dennis then National Chairman of SVP, explains to Archbishop Ndingi Mwana Nzeki the nature of the SVP society’s activities among the less disadvantaged in society. They were among Allamanos beneficiaries. After his retirement the Archbishop Emeritus Ndingi Mwana Nzeki became a Trustee of the Kenya society for the Mentally handicapped [KSMH <http://www.ksmh.org/> ] and an active advocate for persons with intellectual disabilities. Allamanos has over the years brought together persons of various cultural, beliefs and nationalities from all over the world to make a difference to “ONE MORE CHILD” with developmental disabilities. The Government of Kenya continues to support the allamano special School by providing Teachers, curriculum and policy guidelines. The Archdiocese of Nyeri has been entrusted with managing the school. Join us in this ongoing effort. Visit WWW.AllamanoSpecialSchool.Org for the schools contact address.

WWW.FriendsOfAllamano.com